Autumn is here. You can now strike at a fly and hit it. The cold wind has begun to ring down the chimney. The hired girl has commenced to kick because there isn't natural gas in her room, and all nature seems in mourning. But yesterday the trees were green and the blithe swallows caroled all the day. Now you step on a piece of oilcloth in your bare feet with an unearthly screech and spend your spare moments extracting mothine balls from your last winter's clothes where a kind wife has placed them. But this is not a time for sadness. In this beautiful free-born land, where a soldier is paid $12 a month to face an army, a pugilist $40,000 a night to face one man and the face one man, and the

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 .- This afternoon William

Smidtha, while in a fit of jealensy, shot

Henry Miller in the right thigh and then went into his own room and cut his throat

from ear to ear, causing almost instant death. Both of the young men have been paying attention to Mary Polst, a German girl aged twenty-three. When Smidtha went home Saturday night he saw the object of his adoration in the company of Henry Miller. Early this morning the encounter. At 2 o'clock Smidtha again met his rival, and, without a word of warning.

drew a revolver from his pocket and fired one shot at Miller. The bullet took effect in the latter's right thigh. The infuriated man jumped upon him and and struck him until be fell over unconscious. Smidtha, evidently, was under the impression that he had killed his rival and went into his own room, and before any one could reach him

seized his razor and out his throat, sever-

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1 .- To-day most of the vided, have left for their homes. The conferences with General Manager Odell, of the railroad company, have been barren of results, except that differences, which at present seem irreconcilable, have developed. The company insists on a reduction of 712 per cent. for an indefinite period. The committee declined this, but yesterday agreed to accept the reduction for six months, the original wages to go into effect again then.

The proposition was not entertained and the committee withdrew. Mr. Odell says he doubts that the committee ropresents a majority of the employes and he believes that the contemplated reduction will be accepted. On the other hand the committee say they represent four-fifths of the trainmen, operators and trackmen and will

Immigration Regulations Which Cana-

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 .- Dr. Senner has returned from Washington, where he was in conference with Superintendent Stump. They considered the regulations to be carried out on the Canadian border to prevent the entrance of undesirable immigrants. "The arrangement that has been made is a most satisfactory one, although it is not with the Canadian government," said Dr. Senner. "The co-operation of the Canadian railroad and steamship companies has been secured, and the agents will act with us. The United States will send six inspectors to Canada, and they will look out for the ports of Quebec. Point Levis and Halifax. Two others will guard Vancouver and Victoria. "On the border line, where it is impossible to put immigrant inspectors, the oustoms inspectors will do the work. The steamship and railroad companies are both to aid the government in singling out such people as are contract laborers, polygamists and persons likely to become public charges. Such as escape the vigilance of the steamship companies will be caught by the railroad people or by inspectors. and will be sent back, as both steamship and railroad companies have agreed to carry them under the same conditions as the lines carrying immigrants from European ports to the United States. It Was Some Other Adventurer Who Was Arrested in Brazil Waters.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 .- The arrest of an American named Boynton by a British man-of-war in a Brazilian harbor, for illegally flying a British flag on a tug carrying a torpedo intended for use against the insurgent fleet, has created the impression that the prisoner is Capt. Paul Boyton, the famous navigator. This impression is false. Captain Boyton is in London, managing the world's water show at Earlscourt. He has been there for many months, and is seen by thousands daily. It is true that the hero of a hundred rivers was chief of the torpedo services of the Dictator Pierola during the Chili-Peruvian war, but as Admiral Lynch declared the captain's efforts to be ultra vires, and the navigator escaped from Pera just in time to escape execution without trial, he has not looked with favor upon the torpedo business since, The captain is making a fortune, and is not in any way connected with the adventurer who was arrested on the Brazilian coast.

Democrats Now Following in the Footsteps of Republicans.

After Denouncing Harrison's Monetary Conference, They Are Now Eager to Hold Another.

SITUATION IN THE SENATE

Mr. Voorhees Will Make No Effort to Hold Night Sessions.

Teller, George, Morgan, Jones of Nevada, Cockrell and Call Yet to Speak Against Repeal.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 .- When the Democrats in the House the other day faced about on the cloture proposition and adopted even more arbitrary power for the Speaker than was ever thought of in the "Reed Congress," they did not take their only back step. The Democrate have been traveling like the crawfish ever since the extraordinary session of Congress was con-

At one time during the session of the Fifty-second Congress it looked as though a free silver bill could not be defeated. The men in the three parties in Congress declared they would not only pass a bill for the free and unlimited coinage of silver, but that if it was vetoed they would pass it over the head of the Republican President. The proposition was passed in the Senate. The House was largely in favor of it. President Harrison opposed free silver coinage upon our own and independent respensibility and so told the party leaders in Congress. He did not say he would veto a free-comage bill, but he left that inference. He proposed that a combe effected and that the of silver as money be left question for international agreement. He proposed the international monetary conference. Finally Sen-ator Sherman led the proposition, and it went into law. But during the discussion upon the Sherman amendment, which the administration is now trying to repeal, since an international agreement has failed, the Democrats in both houses denounced the proposition for an international arrangement. When Congress was called into extraordinary session Democratic Congressmen predicted that the monetary conference would be hamstrung, called in, and all that sort of thing. The tables have turned. The situation is reversed, and President Cleveland finds himself in much the situation as that of three years ago. When they began to assemble here in the early part of last August the Democrats did not know the programme, but that did not prevent them from shooting off their mouths. They denounced the idea of unconditional repeal and spoke bitterly against "that makeshift of Harrisons, to refer the matter to a so-called international conference." First they were made to swallow their words about unconditional repeal. But they conan international agreement. About a fortnight since President Cleveland told his repeal leaders that the international monetary conference idea must be revived: that it was the only politic so-lution of the problem. It was a bitter pill to those who spoke against it under Harrison and had denounced it on the stump and in private as a "cowardly makeshift." But they swallowed the pill. Scarcely a repeal Democrat has spoken in the Senate during the past two weeks who has failed to advocate unconditional repeal as "the only means by which an international agree-ment can be reached through the proposed the international monetary conference," which is provided for by an amendment to the bill under consideration. President Harrison and his party have thus, in the wisdom of President Cleveland and his leaders, been acting for the best in every-thing. The Reed Congress was wise in its arbitrary rules, and so the fire-eaters have indorsed everything which was so obnoxlittle time, a reversal of political fortunes and some official pap; they all go to make any Democrat in Congress change his mind. There is scarcely a thing the Democrats denounced under the last administration that they have not since last April been trying to imitate." THE END NOT IN SIGHT. Several Long-Winded Senators Have Yet to Talk Against Repeal.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 .- The minth week of the present session of Congress begins tomorrow and the result of the work so far accomplished cannot be said to be encouraging to persons who had hoped for a speedy adjustment of the great financial question which caused the issue of the call for the special session. The present outlook is towards a continuation of the debate which has been in progress for the last five weeks in the Senate. The renewed talk of compromise legislation, however, gives the impression in some quarters that the end may be near. The list of speakers has not been completed for this week, and it may be assumed that when it is the names of few repeal Senators will appear upon it and the debate will be left almost altogether to the silver men. Three of these-Teller, George Morgan-are entitled to the floor at any time to conclude speeches which they have begun, but not finished. Mr. Call has signified a desire to address the Senate to-morrow, but his is the only new speech formally announced. Senator Jones. of Nevada, has not spoken during the present debate, and is known to be preparing a very exhaustive treatise upon the silver question. He will probably consume the larger part of two or three days. Senator Cockrell's speech will also be his first speech of the session, and will probably be long. All these speeches will be in opposition to repeal. The spectre of night sessions has again been laid. The truce limiting time for debate to seven hours per day expires by limitation to-morrow, but Mr. Voorhees said yesterday that he would make no effort to terminate it at that time, as a great many of the repeal Senators would be absent during the week.

The week's business in the House will be confined, so far as can be stated, to a continuance of the debate on the elections bill, under the order, which will ex-haust itself on the 10th inst. The debate, as far as it has progressed, has failed to develop any of that intensity of partisan feeling so freely predicted of it. In fact, it has been rather tame and uninteresting, and on one or two days last week an early adjournment was necessitated because there was no one ready to proceed with the argument. An improvement in this respect is anticipated this week. The Speaker's list contains the names of some of the leaders who have asked for time-Burrows, Henderson of Iowa, Dolliver, Fitch, Fellows and others. The expectation is that the debate, like that on the buil for the repeal of the silver-purchasing law, will increase in interest toward the close and go out in a blaze of glory, so to speak. SUPREME COURT.

The Indiana Railroad Tax Suit to be Given a Special Hearing. WASHINGTON, Cct. 1 .- The Supreme Court of the United States will meet on feel a natural anxiety that the appointment of Justice Hornblower shall be confirmed by the Senate before that time. The overloaded state of the docket makes it important that his portion of the work should be assigned him at the opening of the term. The action of the court on Monday will be confined to the customary call upon the President. All of the eight justices are expected to be present at the opening of the court. Justices Field, Brewer, Brown and Jackson are already here in Washington. Justice Harlan, who was one of the arbitrators in the Bering sea sealing case, in Paris, is now on the Atlantic, and is expected in Washington by Oct. 5. The court has assigned a number of cases for special hearing. Of these the principal are Barden vs. the Northern Pacific Railway Company, involving the validity of title to mineral lands in Montana; the Mormon Church ease, involving the question of the disposition of sequestrated lands of the Church ease, involving the question of the disposition of sequestrated lands of the church; the Big Four and other railroad companies versus Indiana county treasurers, in which is at issue an important question of railroad taxation; the ex parte case of the Ann Arbor Railroad Company against James Semon, which is known to the public as a boy cott case, growing out of a recent strike on the Ann Arbor railroad. A similar suit against Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, has been compromised, and the case of Semon been compromised, and the case of Semon may never come to trial.

no skull and cross-bones headed the circular, the words were printed in large, black, ominous-looking type. The letters containing the circulars were postmarked New

Body of a Man Found in the Rear of the Matz Saloon This Morning.

Lodge Receipt of the Order of Druids, Bearing the Name of Christian Baier. Found in the Pockets.

WAS PROBABLY MURDERED

Bruises On the Head Similar to Those Made by a Sandbag.

Coroner's Investigation Begun at Once -Nothing to Indicate That the Man Had Been Drinking

Merchant policeman Bacon made a ghastly find at 1:30 o'clock this morning while making his rounds. In the rear of the Matz saloon, at No. 33 East Market street, was found the body of a man about thirty-five years old and fairly well-dressed. The body was ly ing upon its face and the first thought of the patrolman was that he had found a drunk. Closer inspection revealed the fact that the prostrate figure was lifeless, although the body was yet warm and there was the slightest indication of a pulse. Not caring to send for a patrol wagon on his own responsibility the officer went in search of the police, but failed to find an officer and returned to the alley. By this time the body was cold, and officers Laughlin and Cox, making their appearance, a search of the dead man's was made. There pockets found a number of etters and papers, mostly written in Glerman, but bearing the Indianapolis post mark and date. On a receipt issued by the Germania Lodge, U. A. O. D., was the name, "Christian Baier."

On other documents was the name of Baier, but no address or street number was given. In one of the dead man's pockets was a small memoranda book from the Original Eagle clothing store, on the fly leaf of which was written the name "Tay-

The face of the corpse presented a ghastly sight, and he had evidently died great agony. An examination of stift hat which lay near by showed a tear in the crown, which appeared to have been made by a blow. This, with a small splotch of blood on the man's face, suggested the idea of fonl play, but the undertakers who examined the body failed to find any external signs of violence.

The clothing worn by the dead man was of light weight and color. He wore a sack coat, low vest, and white shirt with standing collar. In appearance he was of dark complexion, about five feet four inches in height and rather slender.

Kregelo & Whitsett took charge of the remains and the coroner was notified. That official arrived at the undertaking establis ment about 3 o'clock and made a partial examination of the body, and then went to the residence of the secretary, who had signed the lodge receipt. Although the police officers found no indication of violence further than the dent in the Derby hat, there is every reason to believe the man was murdered. The coroner and others who viewed the remains thought it was a case of sandbagging, as bruises were discovered on the head that might have been made by that deadly weapon. There were no fumes of whisky about the body when found by Mr. Bacon to indicate the man had been drinking. The affair is shrouded in a mystery that will probably be cleared up to-

Yet Too Weak to Be Removed to His Friedrichsruhe Home.

War Talk at Berlin-Anarchist Skulls Cracked by English Police-Siam Gives In to France.

[Copyrighted, 1893, by the United Press.]

Berlin, Oct. 1 .- Emperor William's deerstalking expedition in Sweden has been his only genuine holiday for many weeks. From his arrival at Gothenburg Tuesday. until he boarded the Hohenzollern again at Karlskronz on Saturday, no official dispatches were sent or received by him. Even this brief respite from state cares affpråed him a more complete rest than he has taken before. Even in his recreation the Emperor does what most men would deem hard work. On Thursday night, for instance, he went by rail from Gothenburg to Horljunga, where he left the train at 10 o'clock on Friday morning. At 6 o'clock he was off with King Oscar and Prince Charles of Sweden to hunt deer. He had dinner at the King's lodge on his return in time to reach Hourahwash. near Dantzig, late last night. Much uneasy speculation was caused by the police closing the harbor from the ferry to the sea until after the Emporer passed through going to his East Prussian lodge at Romintin, where he joined the Empress to-day. The precaution was unprecedented and, combined with the known presence in Dantzig of an unusual number of private police from Berlin, made the impression that the authorities were acting under the influence of the anarchist panic. The Emperor, on leaving, had only the customary attend-ants around him. No special guards preceded him. His sojourn at Romintin will be short. He will attend the consecration of a new chapel, pass a quiet day with the Empress and to-morrow will be back to resume his usual duties.

The consensus of opinion among the officials around the Emperor is that he overexerts his body and brain and will not long bear up under the strain. He does not sleep sufficiently at night, begins work in the early morning and proceeds with fever-ish unrest throughout the day. Dr. Lu-canus finds it a trying task to keep up with the activity of his imperial master, who openly chaffs him if business be not pushed shead rapidly enough. In an interview with the United Press correspondent Dr. Lucanus expressed great admiration of the Emperor's capacity for incessant work. "The Emperor works methodically," Dr. Lucanus said, "and is aided by a fine memory. It is never necessary for him to write his speeches beforehand. He has always a skeleton of the subjects to be touched, and fills in the blanks as he makes his address. After speaking he dictates to the chief of his Cabinet the whole speech. usually without the slightest change. He remembers the slightest turn of a phrase. It is a rare occurrence for him to hesitate even in reading a word or sentence."

The newspaper discussion on the Emperor's relations to Bismarck does not abate, although the public have been disillusionized as to the probability of their being friends. Official opinion, as ex-plained in last week's letter, overshadowed the popular illusion. Reports are still rife as to exchanges of messages between the Emperor, Bismarck and the Empress Frederick as to mediation through Count William Bismarck and as to the Emperor's planning a visit to Friedrichsruhe. The truth is there is no present plan of reconciliation. Neither the Emperor nor Bismarck ever intended a reconciliation to be achieved in any way except by the other's complete submission. With the growing strength of the Prince the Bismarckian newspaper is increasing the offensive critinem. Dismarck says the Hamburg Nach richten cannot be silent before the suppression of certain policies prejudicial to the Emperor. Accordingly, the Nachrichten proceeds to tell all parties to watch Miquel's new projects jealously. These projects, however, are still too incomplete to be attacked intelligently. In connection with the government's decision to request an extraordinary credit for the navy they excite much opposition.

their hope that the government majority in the Reichstag will go to pieces on the estimates. The National Zeitung, in an unprejudiced leader, argues that the government in asking for a large increase of the navy commits a dangerous blunder. It is impossible, says the writer, for Germany to expect a fleet of the first rate besides an immense army. The Reichstag which passed the army bill by only a meager majority, he adds, will undoubtedly reject the bill proposing a new burden for the navy. The demands of the government for the navy are based partly on reports of the recent maneuvers in the Baltic. These reports indicate that war ships of a new type are required. The torpedo fleet was found to be very effective, but the large vessels must be partly superseded by cruisers capable of ramming the strongest ironciads. In the last maneuvers the larger ironelads, Deutscheland and Kenig Wilhelm, were of no service in the heavy weather, because they could not use their guns in the service. Caprivi may utilize these incidents well enough to persuade the Reichstag to think with him in the Privy Councilor Carl Hoffman, one of the German jurors at the world's fair, told the correspondent that nobody at Chicago received the German jurors. Neither the State, nor town, nor exhibition authorities paid the slightest attention to them. Before they left Berlin they were requested by Imperial Commissioner Wermuth to bring with them their full dress or evening dress. The only time they needed such elaborate toilets, however, was when the imperial commissioner gave them a dinner to welcome them to the city. Henry Villard was the only man who showed them hospitality. Upon inquiry Privy Councilor Hoffmann learned that the reception committee had spent all its money upon the Duke of Veragua, and had nothing with Amid his many duties the Emperor has found time to regulate the theaters and has given permission by an antograph rescript to Count Hockberg, in charge of the Royal Theater, that for the first time in Berlin history the part of a Prussian King may be introduced on a stage. BISMARCK'S HEALTH.

The Prince Not in Condition to Be Removed to His Home.

BERLIN, Oct. 1 .- The newspapers here today publish less favorable reports regarding Prince Bismarck's health. It was the intention of his family and physicians to remove him to his home at Friedricharube yesterday, but the Prince was not in concition to make the journey. The Berlin papers quote as a confirmation of the rcports that the Prince is not doing so well
